This image shows a blank sheet of graph paper with a grid of 20 columns and 25 rows. The grid is composed of thin black lines on a white background. The first two columns are narrower than the other 18 columns. There are four distinct vertical bands of varying widths across the page: a narrow band in the first column, a wider band in the second column, another narrow band in the third column, and a very wide band spanning from the fourth to the nineteenth column. The remaining four columns on the right side of the page are of uniform width and are narrower than the wide central band.
